About

I'm a UI/UX designer with over 20 years of experience in creating user-focused designs for websites, mobile applications, and software development. I have a deep understanding of the design process, latest technologies, and the unique challenges that come with working on a remote team.

In my previous role, I managed and mentored a remote team of designers. I also delivered creative solutions for a wide range of clients, from startups to Fortune 500 companies. I'm a result oriented designer who strives to deliver high-quality work on time and within budget, even when faced with tight deadlines and complex requirements.

I am confident that my skill set and experience would be a valuable asset to your team. I am eager to learn more about your company's goals and how I can help you achieve them.
